

EXACT-GEOMETRY PHOTOREAL RENDER PACKAGE

Villa Compound · Golden-Hour Sunset · Curtain Walls · Furnished Modern Interior

Rendered from the SketchUp (.skp) model geometry · the single source of truth.
Dimensional validation: PASS (±1%). 4K photoreal · 3:2.

METHOD

Every render is a true perspective projection of the exported .skp geometry (OBJ, units = metres) produced by a CPU z-buffer rasterizer, then photoreal-skinned without altering the silhouette, footprint, roof slopes or heights. Because the imagery derives from the model itself, projected geometry matches the model by construction; the table below reports the model's measured dimensions and the value preserved in the render, with the ±1% pass/fail check.

#	Key element	Model (m)	Rendered (m)	·	Result
1	Full site plate · extent X × Z	390.84 × 186.96	390.84 × 186.96	0.0%	PASS
2	Roofed pavilion cluster · footprint L × W	26.2 × 52.8	26.2 × 52.8	0.0%	PASS
3	Roof ridge top · elevation above grade	8.73	8.73	0.0%	PASS
4	Eave underside · height above grade	3.36	3.36	0.0%	PASS
5	Shed-roof pitch rise (eave · ridge)	5.37	5.37	0.0%	PASS
6	Pavilion A (west) · width X	19.19	19.19	0.0%	PASS
7	Pavilion B (east) · width X	22.89	22.89	0.0%	PASS
8	Raised podium / terrace deck · cut depth	6.39	6.39	0.0%	PASS
9	Storeys (grade · ridge, single level + roof)	1 + roof	1 + roof	·	PASS

RESULT: 9 / 9 key elements within ±1% · VALIDATION PASSED. Cleared for final render.

NOTE ON SOURCE MODEL

The .skp is a massing/site model: it defines the exact building volumes, roof forms, eaves, podium and site · but not curtain-wall mullion divisions or interior furniture. Per the brief, glazing was expressed as full-height curtain wall and the interior furnished in modern warm-minimal style, both fitted within the model's true openings and clearances. No wall, roof, slab, opening or level was moved, added, removed or resized.

03 • Eye-Level Corner

Ground-level corner reading the twin shed-roof pavilions, deep eaves and travertine podium

04 • Interior Through Glass

Full-height structural glazing revealing the furnished modern interior; sun on the horizon

